

CAPITAL COMMENT

Admiral at Sea: CIA director Stansfield Turner is about as popular around his agency these days as a KGB rezidentura, a fact of which subordinates reminded the career admiral with a version of the "polish-up-the-handle-of-the-big-front-door" tune from HMS Pinafore. Hot from a CIA photocopy machine:

Of intelligence I had so little grip

That they offered me the directorship.

With my brassbound head of oak so stout

I don't have to know what it's all about.

Chorus:

Keep your minds a perfect blank and remain at sea

And you all will be Directors of the Agency!
